POTENTATE'S MESSAGE — SUMMERTIME!

by IS Ray Singmaster

So far so good. Even with the cancelations and re-scheduling we have had a great start to 2021. The Al Kaly Divan has been active and working hard attending O.V.'s, Parades and as many events as possible. We are looking forward to CSSA in Oklahoma City, OK and Imperial in Houston, TX. There have been several events that took place in April, May, and early June such as, the Stated Meeting, Music and Blossom Parade in Canon City, The Al Kaly Invitational Girls Softball Tournament, Dinner and Cigars under the stars, several O.V.'s, and a myriad of Mule train events. Let's continue to enjoy the Summer and watch the Nuts & Bolts and the Al Kaly event calendar for upcoming events and activities, as well as, for any changes and updates.

The work Shriners and our Ladies do for the community, with kids and families is truly rewarding. The friendships and camaraderie gained along the way are truly remarkable. Al Kaly Shrine Temple, along with all the clubs and units are on a mission to revitalize interest in the Shrine and what we do globally and in our own backyards.

As many of you know Al Kaly was chartered June 26, 1921, making 2021 the 100th anniversary of Al Kaly Shrine. I am proud and honored to be fortunate enough to be the 100th Potentate of Al Kaly. I hope we can all continue to enjoy what we do as Shriners and encourage others to continue the legacy for another 100 years.

VOLUNTEERS AND DONATIONS NEEDED

by John Weed

High Priest & Prophet

As Shriners, we are taught that one of our primary missions is to support our hospitals and children. However, there are other opportunities to serve right here in the Pikes Peak region. As many of you might be aware, Marion House Kitchen in downtown Colorado Springs provides cooked meals to the less fortunate and/or homeless of the city. In particular, they take pride in not having missed a day of service since they took over kitchen operations in 1994. More importantly, they are proud that this tradition has continued this past year during the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic. Daily lunch service came in many forms, but it never ceased, due to the courage demonstrated by the volunteers. Without the kind contributions from the community, thousands of people would have had a much worse experience during the COVID crisis.

Marion House volunteers took on significant risk during this past year. It meant leaving home in the midst of a statewide "stay at home" order. Yet, every day, volunteers showed up to serve our brothers and sisters. Between 1 April 2020 and 1 March 2021, 1,142 volunteers provided over 37,000 hours of service to the Marion House Kitchen, and related services. This sacrifice was for a greater good. The job duties may transform, facilities evolve, and the procedures change, but the needs of the less fortunate and vulnerable remain. In Hebrews 6:10, we read, "For God is not unjust so as to overlook your work and the love you have demonstrated for his name by having served and continuing to serve the holy ones."

As such, and in direct, on-site discussions with Coordinator Ms. Brittany Smith, she stated that the Marian House welcomes donations from Catholics and Non-Catholics, alike. Some of the needed items include:

Family Size Items: cans of soup, packages of rice, beans, pasta, cooking oil, and hygiene items. In addition, items such as: vegetables, fresh fruit, flour, sugar, milk, juice, ready to heat items, sandwich size Ziploc bags, Styrofoam coffee cups, and Nitrile food service gloves in all sizes.

I would ask that you seriously consider donating to the Marion House Kitchen, located at 14 W. Bijou Street, Colorado Springs, CO. A picture of the Marion House, and where you can drop off your donations is above. You will be happy that you did. Thank you.

AL KALY MULE TRAIN

Traffic goes by fast, but this historic mule train refuses to fade in busy Colorado city

By Seth Boster
seth.boster@gazette.com
May 2, 2021

Traffic roars up and down Interstate 25 on the south side of Colorado Springs, but it is quiet here inside an adjacent clubhouse displaying trophies and pictures of decades gone by.

Jim Johnson is looking at one of those photos. It's from 1983. "Look at all these members," he remarks.

There are 27 in a row with their mules — uniformed men and steeds representing a colorful, historic group.

Today, there are nine riders. Johnson is among them.

To the unaware driver, it is an obscure, curious title seen along the interstate: "Al Kaly Shrine Mule Train" announces the barn's face, impossible to miss beside the red brick silo.

One might trace Al Kaly — pronounced "kuh-lie" — to a phone number in Pueblo, the unassuming base for southern Colorado's chapter of Shriners International. The man on the other line doesn't get many calls, but he's come to expect inquiries about the mule train. "I get more calls about that than anything else," he says.

The mule train is no mystery to Shriners, members of the 150-year-old fraternal society rooted in philanthropy and fun. Members have been drastically dwindling. And so to a growing number of commuters on I-25 — and indeed to a growing number of outsiders across America — Shriners and their whereabouts are vague, including their support of children's hospitals and their various "units."

Perhaps you've seen them at a parade: grown men squeezed into tiny cars, sporting collared shirts and fezzes, those cup-shaped caps with tassels. Shriner clowns form another traditional unit.

The mule train unit is different. Across all of Shrinedom, it is believed to be the last of its kind.

While different in style — an homage to the military's former mounted commands — the goal is the same as the tiny car drivers and clowns. Mule riders raise awareness and funds for Shriners Hospitals for Children by parading around and performing against other drill teams on horseback. Along the way, they revel in kinship, partaking in regular meals and practicing routines around these 27 acres of pasture off the interstate.

While they enjoy the one-of-a-kind distinction, they also enjoy a certain visibility hard for any other Shrine club to achieve. That's been the case since the 1970s, when mule riders acquired the former dairy farm beside the expanding highway.

And yet, the visibility hasn't reversed a troubling trend.

"Membership decreases every year," says Allan Ake, vice president of the mule train and Al Kaly Shrine member since 2003. "This (chapter), when I joined, there was something like 1,500 members. We are now staring at about 500."

This matches a long-going downturn for Florida-based Shriners International.

In 2006, The Tampa Bay Times reported membership had reached a 50-year low of 540,000. At the time, the Shriners were "an institution in crisis," according to the newspaper, which chronicled the brotherhood facing accusations of hazing and misogyny, all while ranks were aging and old rituals and rites were being reconsidered to meet the modern age. The Times cited a poll predicting the organization would not last through the 2020s.

In the 15 years since then, the spotlight has dimmed on the Shriners. Membership reportedly hovers around 200,000.

It costs money to be a Shriner, dues and donations for the hospitals. And there are more financial and personal commitments to maintain a unit like the mule train, the unit's president, Johnson, recognizes. There's tending to the animals and land, the farm buildings and equipment, the traveling.

The mule train finds itself at the intersection of civic involvement and equine hobby — both of which have been broadly declining in the 21st century.

"Young people either don't have the money or don't have the time," Johnson says.

Johnson is retired like almost all other riders of recent years. A portion of membership is connected by ranching backgrounds — men in the city longing for rural boyhoods — while another portion shares military ties.

"After I retired from the Army, I needed a mission," Johnson says. "This became the mission."

That mission: "To keep this organization alive."

Shrine membership was its strongest in the years after World War II and the Korean War, when soldiers returned home looking for fellowship and purpose. It was around this time the Al Kaly Mule Train was born.

Army pack mules were being phased out in favor of machines, including at what was then Camp Carson in Colorado Springs in 1957. There happened to be some Shriners from those mounted units. Rather than let the animals go to auction, they purchased 28 to establish the mule train.

The first major function came in 1961. Riders represented Colorado at John F. Kennedy's inauguration.

The years went on with other notable parades at Rose Bowls and Fiesta Bowls, along with local appearances at Army-Air Force football games. There was a baseball game in Kansas City. A mule celebration in California. A patriotic ceremony in Tennessee. Drill competitions all over.

In 1992, the group was invited to Leadville for a reunion of 10th Mountain Division veterans, who had trained in the area with mules during World War II. Group history recalls old men tearyeyed at the reunion: "Some had not seen a mule since the war."

The emotional connection lasts for riders today. Debbie Dupont has seen it, the mule train's longtime caretaker living on the land off I-25.

"It's almost like therapy for them," she says. "They come down, and if they do nothing but brush the animal, it did a lot. People do that with horses, and guys here do that with their mules."

Nine guys own 12 mules named CB, Xena, Jerico, Scoot, Josie, Rufus, Ike, Jill, Denver, Buck, Red Dot and Roy.

"Some are stinkers, and some are sweethearts," says Carol Krutzke, whose husband rides.

Some indeed live up to the stubborn reputation, says Dupont, who spent decades working with horses before mules.

"I find the most difference is the fight or flight response," she says. "Mules think about something before they spook, whereas a horse will spook and then think. Horses are quicker to leave. ... If a mule gets caught in a fence, they won't fight like a horse. They'll stand there and think about it."

All are part of the family that members describe — "kind of cliché," Ake admits.

But how else to describe the camaraderie? All of those family meals, the cross-country trips with spouses, the drill victories and celebrations, the calls for help always met.

"Everybody watches out for each other," says rider Bo Cruz. "We take care of each other as well as take care of each other's mules."

The good times roll. They're preserved at the clubhouse in grainy photos on the walls and more in albums. Johnson looks at them now, feeling inspired.

Like time, the traffic outside keeps moving. The city steadily encroaches on this slice of country. But the men, like the mules, are stubborn and unmoving.

This old tradition isn't going anywhere, Johnson says. "We won't let it die."

MEMBERSHIP: WE NEED YOUR HELP!

David Stevens
Treasurer, PP

We just finished a current analysis of our membership and it is not surprising as to what we found. Our shrine currently has 477 members. The youngest members are 23. The oldest members are 97 years young. The average age is 71. We have matured right before our eyes. See the statistics below:

20s: 4
30s: 7
40s: 31
50s: 36
60s: 91*
70s: 150*
80s: 125*
90s: 33

**The critical years*

In looking at the statistics another way, 16% of our members are under age 60, which also means 84% are 60 and older. We are asking each of you to look for the member that can move the needle and move our average toward the younger side.

To all younger members, what do we need to help encourage your peers to come and join Al Kaly as you have? Do we need different clubs and units? What encouraged you to join?

Statistically, if the categories are similar, it may be an indicator that other Masonic Communities might also be suffering on par with Shrine.

Typically, this reveals a need for a recruitment campaign that must be supported by leadership at all levels — lodge ambassadors, clubs, and units.

To our benefit, Grand Master Michael D. Moore has opened the doors for appendant houses within his jurisdiction to publish articles in his monthly newsletter, significantly helping our temple in promoting upcoming events.

Looking at the statistics displayed above, the heavy side eventually will lack the energy to recruit (IS Bob Burr being an exception).

So, here are some suggestions that can rapidly and productively help in our attempts to recover:

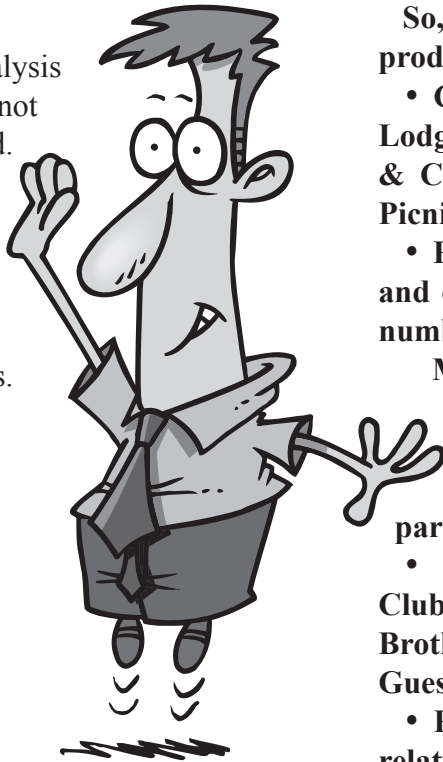

- Continue to publish monthly articles in the Grand Lodge newsletter, regardless of how small, e.g., Steak & Cigar Meals, Mule Train BBQ's, Parades, Annual Picnics, etc, etc.
- Place Shriner petitions in the Grand Lodge Center and outlying lodges with a point of contact and phone number/email similar to what International does for our Membership Committee.
- Send personal invitations to the "heads" of our Masonic bodies (men and ladies) to either a Shrine event, whether it be a Club or Unit dinner, parade, or Shriners Hospital visit.
- Identify Guests of Honor and invite them to our Club/Unit dinners, e.g., Grand Master, Worshipful Brothers, their wives, and principal officers as Honored Guests.
- Participate in other appendant bodies and develop relationships within their leadership; participate in their reunions.
- Recommend a Shriner become a member of other appendant houses...and vice versa; embedding ourselves in their organizations.

Recruiting can be very creative. Engaging our Blue Lodges doesn't come easy unless we welcome them with open arms, support their leadership with educational bits, and genuinely displaying a concern for each other's existence.

Our Club and Unit meetings can be a prime resource for recruiting. Recruiting must not only be the responsibility of a committee of three Nobles; and the Divan already carries a heavy burden on a weekly basis. However, we have a fishing hole in our Clubs and Units. Shriners that are members of Lodges can easily invite a brother to our monthly dinners and scheduled events. Nothing "secretive" is ever discussed during these events. Even our ceremonies are open to the public.

As the temple celebrates its Centennial Year, let us make sure Al Kaly is here for the Bi-Centennial Celebration. Reach out to your Divan and let them know what our Ambassadors, Clubs and Unit Presidents are doing to reverse the statistics mentioned above.

The Al Kaly Shrine General and Transportation Fund are in need of a financial boost.

The increasing cost of operating Al Kaly Temple and transporting kids to the hospital combined with decreasing membership has put a strain on the General Fund and Transportation Fund. Please remember both of these funds when donating. Send your donation to: Al Kaly Shrine, P.O. Box 193, Pueblo, Colorado 81002

In Memoriam

As of: October 24, 2020

"Do not stand at my grave and weep,
I am not there, I do not sleep.
I am in a thousand winds that blow,
I am the softly falling snow.
I am the gentle showers of rain,
I am the fields of ripening grain.
I am in the morning hush,
I am in the graceful rush.
Of beautiful birds in circling flight,
I am the starshine of the night.
I am in the flowers that bloom,
I am in a quiet room.
I am in the birds that sing,
I am in each lovely thing.
Do not stand at my grave and cry,
I am not there. I do not die.
